

Above, Michael Frenette's assistant works on the Boathouse "maintenance" project, with all of Newcomb Lake before him. Right, AARCH Executive Director Steve Engelhart (back) talks with intern Jason Henderson. Below, two exterior views of the Boathouse, showing the only extant quarter of its former roof, which collapsed under the heavy winter snows of 1993.

Left, the front porch of the central pavilion in Santanoni's Main House.

Right, master carpenter Michael Frenette in the Boathouse.

Below left, the rear of the Kitchen-Service building, supported by emergency cribwork.

Below right, the middle bridge between the Farm Complex and the Main Camp is in danger of collapse, its containing wall supported only by a makeshift crutch.

